WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13

You will find the program for the Fair in the DEMOCRAT every day.

THE opening evening of the Free Carnival and Street Fair will be very attractive to Akron people. No citizen of Akron will miss this evening's Taken on Text Books. entertainment.

How do you like the appearance of the DEMOCRAT today? If there's anything you want to know about the Carnival and Street Fair you Will can find it in the DEMOCRAT.

CHAIRMAN WEENER is evidently on good terms with the Weather Clerk, or else the latter knows a good Street Fair when he sees it. At any rate the fine weather we are having for the opening day could not have been improved upon if made to order, with indications that it will continue throughout the entire

It is to be hoped that our neighbor down the street will be discreet Superintendent Makesa Recomenough to quit talking about politics and the campaign opening until next week. Give this week to the merchants and manufacturers, who have gone to such pains and expense to provide the people and their city What the Geographical Redistricting with a great free entertainment and advertisement. Don't annoy the thousands of visitors who come to see what a big and hospitable city Akron is by shouting political harangues into their ears. Tell them about Akron, the Fair, and the enterprise of Akron's business men. That's what the DEMOCRAT is going

MORE PUBLIC SPIRIT NEEDED.

Chairman Paul E. Werner, in giving his impressions of his experience solicitation that I come to report at from Spicer to Henry and Leggett; in the management of the Free the opening meeting of the school it from Perkins to Howe and 5 to Carnival and Street Fair, makes a plea for a more general public spirit opened a school with better prosamong Akron's citizens.

With his usual frankness Chairman Werner tells why Akron's repuwell deserved, and he does not hesitate to place the responsibility. There is excellent advice in the suggestion of Mr. Werner that Akron people should learn to be "more generous and liberal for the public good." The Tip Top city cannot afford to ing the election of the following

THE FREE STREET FAIR.

Akron's great Free Carnival and Street Fair opens today with every condition favorable to its success. It has been intelligently managed. It has the elements of merits and liberality to attract the people. It has been extensively advertised. It has had the good will and co-operation of all the citizens of Akron who are not lacking in public spirit. For Akron will have many thousands of guests within the next three days. They will find Akron a very hospitable city. Ample preparations have good for the adoption of the Werner other school, not designated, will be been made for their entertainment. A very cordial welcome has been tendered them by Mayor Young in behalf of the Fair management and the city.

The citizens who have worked so unselfishly and so unceasingly in behalf of the Carnival and Street Fair deserve the warmest praise for their enterprise and public spirit. When the people have an opportunity to become acquainted with the magnitude of the event which has been provided for their entertainment, and enjoy its many pleasures, all without the cost of even a cent to them if they so will it, they will not be slow to express the full measure of their gratitude.

Head of the Family Expired Suddenly.

PARALYTIC STROKE KILLED HIM.

tible to fecure the Services of a Physician Before Death Came-His Wife and Two of the Children Were Present-Sketch of His Career.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 .- Cornelius Vanderbilt, head of the Vanderbilt family, died at his residence in this city from a stroke of paralysis, Mr. Vanderbilt was in his 56th year. At his bedside when he died were his wife and children, Guadys and Reginald. No physician was in attendance. The attack was very sudden and entirely unex-perted, and it was impossible to reach any physician before death occurred.

CGENELIUS VANDERBILT.

Dr. Francis Delafield, who had been attending Mr. Vanderbilt, arrived at the house after Mr. Vanderbilt's death had occurred.

made concerning the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Vanderbilt, and Senator Chauncey M. Depow gave out a statement saying that Mr. Vanderbilt left Newport for the purpose of attending a meeting of the directors of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad. He was feeling as well as usual and had no premonition of ap-proaching death. He reached home and went to bed about 10 o'clock. He woke up in the morning about 5 o'clock and complained of feeling very ill. He called his wife and she immediately sent for a physician. Mr. Vanderbilt died within a few minutes and before any physician arrived. Dr. Delafield, who had been attending him, when he arrived pronounced the cause of death to be cerebral hemorrhage. Because death was so sudden the coroner was notified, and there will be a formal in-

The senator further said: "The funeral will be held in St. Bar tholomew's church, probably next Fri-day, and Bishop Potter and the rector, Rev. Dr. Greer, will officiate. There will be a meeting of the Vanderbild lines next Thursday to pass appropriate resolutions of respect to Mr. Vander bilt. All the members of the family have either called in person or sent telegrams, with the exception of his son Alfred, who is now traveling some-where in China. A telegram was sent to several points in China and Japan, informing him of the death. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr , sent a telegram from Newport stating that he was on his

The news of the death of the railroad magnate soon spread over the city. Messengers were sent to all the relative and near friends of the deceased and the family. Chauncey M. Dewey, who was a near friend and business associate of the deceased, called. He was risably affected. He remained a short while, and when he came out there were tears in his eyes.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and his wire called early and remained some time at the house. Then William K. Vanderbilt went for his father and brought him to the house. The father was much affected when he caught sight of the house where his brother lay dead that he clasped his son in his arms and kissed nim. They walked together arm in arm into the house, shedding

A coroner's physician made an in-quest into the cause of death and found that it was due to cerebral hemorrhag The coroner also viewed the body and endorsed this finding. Permission for burial was given and the body was em-

A special detail of policemen was dis-patched to the Vanderbilt house and vere placed on duty.

Cornelius Vanderbilt was born on Staten Island, Nov. 27, 1843. William H. Vanderbilt, his father, was at that time a farmer, and Cornelius at the age of 16 left school and secured a place as messenger in the Shoe and Leather asked why he had not applied to him for a place. "Because I did not want to ask you for anything," was the reply. This pleased the commodore and it is said that he made a codicil to his will a few days later leaving $1,000,000 to hi bank. His grandfather, the commo-dore, learning of this sent for him and Cornelius left the Shoe and Leather bank to go into the employ of Kissan Brothers, bankers, but later his grand father asked him to enter the railroad service. The young man was making $60 a month and declined to leave hi place unless he got more money. He was given $65 and accepted it. He was then about 21 years old. The first place he was given was that of assistant treasurer of the New York and Harlem railroad. His rise was rapid and he succeeded his father as head of the Vanderbilt system.

Mr. Vanderbilt's active career was practically closed when he suffered a paralytic stroke in 1896. Despite his enormous business interests he found time to devote to church and Sunday school work, which he be-gan early in life. He gave freely to the railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A. and to the work of St. Bartholomew's P. E. church in this city. Mr. Vanderbilt's great business cares made his life necessarily methodical, and he was noted for his panetuality. Mr. Vanderbilt went to Europe spring and came home on June 24, accompanied by airs. Vanderbilt and his daughter, Gladys. They went to New-port the same day and Mr. Vanderbilt improved constantly in his health. On Aug. 5 he gave a house party at his home, The Breakers. The last social affairs in The Breakers were upon the departure of Alfred Vanderbilt for a round-the-world trip. He left for Seattle on July 26, accompanied by William S. Proudfit Burdett, Ernest Iselin and
